

John G. Bruno

President & Chief Operating Officer

John G. Bruno serves as President and Chief Operating Officer of Xerox Corporation where he leads operating model advancements and the structural redesign of the company to reposition Xerox for long-term profitable and sustainable growth. This strategic redesign and resulting growth plays are informed by macro trends, client feedback, and the market opportunities created by a hybrid workplace and distributed workforce. John is responsible for strategy and corporate development, research and product development, marketing and public relations, service delivery, manufacturing and supply chain operations, sourcing, real estate, information technology, and security.

John joined Xerox from Aon, where he was Chief Operating Officer of the firm and Chief Executive Officer of Data & Analytic Services. As CEO of Data & Analytic Services, John led the strategic shift of over $1.7B of traditional business to a new technology-led business model. As COO, he was responsible for migrating and modernizing legacy independent technology & business operations functions to a global shared operating model with more than 22,000 professionals focused on client success, innovation, growth, profit, and service excellence.

Prior to joining Aon, John was President, Industry & Field Operations and EVP of Corporate Development for NCR Corporation, where he played a prominent role in the company's reinvention to a growth-oriented, hardware-enabled, software-driven business model.

John has also held senior leadership positions with Goldman Sachs, Merrill Lynch, Symbol Technologies (acquired by Motorola), and Cisco Systems. John currently serves on the Board of Directors of Global Payments, where he is chair of the Compensation Committee as well as a member of the Technology Committee.
